Frequently Asked Questions

I have the Waze app. Can I carpool with that? Or do I need a separate app?

If you're a driver, you can use the Waze app to offer rides and receive up to .54 cents a mile! If however, you prefer to ride with someone, then you can download the Carpool app and start requesting rides today.

Great! So I can cut down on car costs?

Yup! As both a rider and a driver. We've met drivers who save $500 a month, just by adding a passenger to their existing commute. One rider got rid of her car altogether and commutes with Waze Carpool 5x a week. Those trips cost her just $25! (And she doesn't have to worry about parking)

But my commute is 10 miles long. Is my ride really only going to cost $5.40?

Yup, at-most a ten mile commute will cost $5.40. Your driver might even charge you less!

Why would a driver offer to pick me up?

The driver must commute to get to work or class., But if they add someone to their drive, they'll earn money on a drive they need to take. By taking advantage of existing drives, we can give riders an inexpensive and efficient way of getting to work and allow drivers to earn back gas money as well as wear and tear costs.. All while removing cars from the road and thus reducing traffic for everyone.

So Waze Carpool isn't like Uber or Lyft?

Correct. Waze Carpool is about sharing a ride to work or school with neighbors, colleagues, or classmates. Apps like Uber and Lyft are great for on-demand rides and it's why they have a fleet of professional drivers.

Does Waze do background checks on drivers?

Waze Carpool is a network intended to connect everyday commuters who travel to work and school along similar routes. Waze Carpool asks all users to complete detailed profiles with real photos, links to Facebook, LinkedIn, and vetted work email addresses. Users also have access to a comprehensive 5-star review and profile system.

Waze Carpool is about choice. Drivers choose riders with whom they want to share the trip, and riders can choose to accept or decline any driver with which they are matched

Do drivers have to claim income for taxes? I don't want to deal with a 1099.

Nope! Since drivers can only the IRS maximum per regulations and are limited to two drives per day, there's no need to worry about taxes or forms!

How is payment handled?

The payment process is through Google Pay. After a rider's first ride, they are prompted to enter a payment method for completed rides. After a driver's first ride they are prompted to enter checking account details to receive monthly payments. We abide by Google's strict privacy policy, so your details are safe.
